public art walking guide

Public art in the city of Adelaide

Public art is an integral and valued part of the city's character.

There is a rich heritage of commemorative sculpture and monuments in addition to the growing collection of contemporary works of art spread through the city streets, within buildings and the parklands.

This guide has been produced by the South Australian Government through Arts SA in partnership with the Adelaide City Council. It provides a practical walking map that highlights significant historical and contemporary artworks in the central business district of Adelaide.

Adelaide City Council, the South Australian Government, private developers and business operators all play a role in the commissioning of public artworks.

Viewing of public art within buildings is subject to their opening times.
